

Heidi Kleinert

Heidi has Bachelor of Applied Science (Environmental Science) and has worked in the NRM industry for more than twenty years. She is passionate about people and their interaction with the environment and is a specialist in engagement and collaboration. With extensive experience in environment water, invasive species management and project management she has worked across not for profit, private, local and state government authorities.

Heidi worked for Agriculture Victoria (2016-2023) as the Victorian Rabbit Action Network (VRAN), Executive Officer, where she facilitated a participatory-based engagement process to build community capacity for the management of rabbits across Victoria.

Heidi continues to work as a consultant with VRAN, focusing on partnership and stakeholder management. She is also a member of Rabbit Free Australia and an active member on the Australian Rabbit Managers Network.
